

New generation of transparent, acoustic curtain fabrics

Innovative, elegant and high quality

Press release

Deurne, May 2018

Vescom continues to innovate and is expanding its collection with two new transparent, acoustic curtain fabrics: Corsica and Capri. Different yarns have been used for texture, a play between matt and shiny. Both qualities are a natural enhancement to the three existing transparent, acoustic fabrics: Carmen, Marmara and Formoza. All from our own weaving mill!

With these fabrics, Vescom not only welcomes two acoustic fabrics with excellent sound-reducing values (alpha 0.65); Corsica and Capri also look stylish and come into their own in an open space. Regardless of whether this space is a hotel lobby, meeting room or an office environment. What really sets the curtain fabrics apart is the fact that they're translucent – a factor that seems at odds with sound absorption. The fabrics are so light and translucent that they connect, rather than divide, space. Corsica and Capri are also extremely soft yet strong and high performing.

Corsica: natural linen look

Corsica proves that aesthetics and functionality can be combined. Despite the high acoustic value, the floor-to-ceiling fabric has a friendly textile feel with a soft linen look. In addition, this fabric creates a comfortable mood to ease any room. Corsica characterises a beautiful blended effect, is available in a wide range of natural colours and can be perfectly combined with other linen-like fabrics.

Capri: functional elegance

Curtain fabric Capri brings a room alive, while providing acoustic benefits to ease the ambient feel and level of comfort, exactly as Corsica does. The fabric has a pleasant and smooth texture while offering a chic look and offers a pallet of colours of special metallic tints such as bronze, silver and platinum.

Functional properties

Vescom's acoustic curtain fabrics are floor-to-ceiling and therefore can be made up without seams. They are lightfast, colourfast, fire retardant, safe, functional, durable and, in many cases, washable at high temperatures. All fabrics are Oeko-Tex certified.
